DEAN College of Business and Public Administration

THE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE invites applications and nominations for the position Dean of the College of Business and Public Administration. As chief academic officer of the College of Business and Public Administration, the Dean is responsible for the academic, personnel, curricular, financial, and administrative affairs of the College. The Dean is also responsible for seeking public and private funds to support further growth and development of the College.

UNIVERSITY of LOUISVILLE

THE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE was established in 1798 and is a Research-intensive metropolitan institution. It is located in a city with an attractive cultural life that is consistently rated as one of the most livable cities in the U.S. The University is part of the Kentucky System of Higher Education and has an enrollment of over 21,000 students in its 13 colleges and schools.

THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS AND PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION, established in 1953, has approximately 3,200 undergraduate students, 600 graduate students, and a full-time faculty of 85. The College has seven endowed chairs to advance its scholarly research mission. In addition to their teaching, scholarly research, and service on the Louisville campus, the college's faculty staffs MBA programs in Athens, Singapore, and Panama. A joint MBA program with two German institutions begins Summer 2002 on the Louisville campus. There are seven undergraduate degree programs and six graduate degree programs.

AACSB International accredits the college, and the MPA is accredited by NASPAA. There is a doctoral degree in urban and public affairs.

In recent years the MBA entrepreneurship concentration has earned a national reputation, the college has taken a leadership position in economic development in its region, and is considered a vital partner by area business executives and government officials. The college's mission and vision statements include specific references to preparing students to launch new ventures or to revitalize established organizations.

The annual operating budget is approximately $15 million, and the college had a $31 million endowment (market value), as of December 31, 2001. The college's 17,000 alumni are in 49 U.S. states and 32 countries.

CANDIDATES are generally expected to have an earned terminal degree appropriate to area of specialization; academic qualifications suitable for appointment at the rank of tenured full professor; a record of accomplishment in scholarship; successful administrative and teaching experience in higher education; strong interpersonal and communication skills; ongoing activity in professional organizations; a commitment to recruitment of faculty, staff and students from culturally diverse backgrounds; and the ability to provide academic vision and leadership.

THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF APPOINTMENT will be January 1, 2003. Salary is commensurate with background and qualifications.

Review of candidates will begin August 15, 2002, and will continue until the position is filled. Nominations or applications (including a letter of interest; curriculum vitae; and the names, addresses and telephone numbers of five references) should be sent to:

Dr. Joel A. Kaplan, Chair, CBPA Dean Search Committee, c/o Office of the University Provost, 201 Grawemeyer Hall, University of Louisville, Louisville, KY 40292.
